Important things to note:

Lessons fees are charged monthly and in advance for the month.

Catch-up lessons can be arranged should the student or teacher miss a lesson due to illness, being away, etc.

Play The Guitar requires lessons to be cancelled 24 hours in advance. Lessons cancelled with less than 24-hour notification will still be charged for and no catch-up lesson will be arranged, with exception to cases of emergency.

If the student or student's parent is aware that the student will miss a lesson or several lessons, it is important to let the teacher know as soon as possible, to ensure that catch-up lessons can be arranged well in advance.

If the teacher arrives at the student's residence or school, and the student is not there/not able to attend the lesson for reasons other than an emergency, the teacher will wait up to 10 minutes for the student to arrive. That time will be subtracted from the lesson time.

If the teacher is late for a lesson, arrangements will be made to make up the extra time.

In cases where the teacher has arrived at the lesson and the lesson does not take place (e.g. due to the student not being there or any other circumstance that would have required notifying the teacher prior to the lesson taking place), the lesson will be charged for and no catch-up lesson will be arranged.

Please note that fees will be charged as normal for December and January and school holidays throughout the year.

Catch-up lessons can be arranged to be done prior to or after the student is away, for instances such as school holidays or when students are away over December/January. The reason for this is that it directly affects the teacher's salary. If the lessons take place at a school that is closed during school holidays, arrangements can be made to temporarily teach students at their home for those lessons, or other catch-up arrangements can be made.
